Show Me the Life in the Soil The Connection Between Soil and Plant Health A Soil Biology Workshop

This workshop will be instructed by Christine George, Microbiologist for Soil Foodweb Canada. Christine graduated from the University of Guelph with a BSc degree with a minor in Microbiology. She has many years experience working as a Senior Laboratory Technician with Soil Foodweb Canada. During this period Christine instructed basic microscope courses and organized soil biology and compost seminars.

The objective of this workshop is to teach the basic science of soil biology. Using this knowledge the student will be taught how to use biological and sustainable methods to improve the soil quality without the use of “unfriendly” chemicals.

The workshop will begin with a description of the Soil Foodweb including the biology of the soil, its importance to soil and plant health, and the methods that can be employed to increase these benefits using various inputs, including compost tea. Instruction will be provided on methods of making quality compost and compost tea and how to troubleshoot these processes. This will be followed by training on the use of the microscope focusing on learning to analyze soil, compost, and compost tea to determine the biological quality.

The price of the course will be $450.00 per participant which includes all course materials (Light Microscope Manual and a Microscope Kit valued at $144.95*) All participants are required to have a microscope for the last day of the course. If needed, a microscope will be available for rental at a cost of $50.00.

The workshop will run each day from 8:30am to 4:30pm with a 1 hour break for lunch. Meals are not included so please bring a lunch with you. The Grand Villa Hotel located at 4331 Dominion Street, Burnaby (604-453-0755) is located close to the Canada Way Education Centre if you require accommodations.
